

In stark contrast, direct stylization of 3D shapes or non-realistic modeling has received far less attention. We present a 3D stylization algorithm that can turn an input shape into the style of a cube while maintaining the content of the original shape.