

The use of extreme point distance criterion to determine feature points. In the following, we approach this generic idea under a specific interactive framework. Our installation where the machine projects completions without painting, combined with generative network capability, allows to explore that in a principled way.